“ Cry For me You cry because you can't find a place in this world. You cry for a loved one. You cry sometimes, but you might not know why. If you knew ever time why you crying you wouldn't cry would you. Why do we cry for these reasons over the small things and even the big things that happen in our life? No one knows. So never say... Stop crying -Bailey Draves
-Written for Jesse Gironimi Will be missed forever never forgot and will always be in my heart, forever and always “ Jesse, my son, We go back to the beginning, son. And, we will see each other again some day, that I am SURE of! You made me laugh. You teased me and your older brother, Jim, and then gave us those dimples when I believed you, even if it was a joke! You hid behind cars so you "missed" the school bus! You jumped off wood piles. You ran like the wind during soccer games and were the BEST goalie! We talked often on the phone over the past couple years since I lived in Arizona, and couldn't visit you often enough. Tiffany, I love you like a daughter, even though I haven't known you for very long. Jesse told me he loved you and your girls very much. I love you, Jesse.

Love, MOM

“ Jesse was one of my only TRUE friends I ever had in my life. In high school we did a lot of fishing together. His friends were material and were not the same kind of friend that I was. I offered him a friendship that was more sincere and from the heart, the other friends he had were all about themselves. Like Luke has said (hey Luke, remember me, probably not) "Friends move across the globe sometimes". Well I have been travelling across the country since 2004 and regret not being there for my old friend Jesse and his family. I haven't talked to Jesse since 2001 because of the fact that his other friends didn't think he should be friends with me any more. Jesse told me that all of his other friends told him they would stop hanging out with him unless he stopped being friends with me. I'll tell you, I probably wouldn't have seen all of California, Colorado, Tennessee, Mississippi, South Dakota, Arizona and so on, if it weren't for his decision to choose many half- friends over one true friend. Thanks for all the good times Jess. I often wondered if we'd have another friendship one day... Still, maybe! I'll miss you.

“ I will miss you Jesse. I really enjoyed your company and laughter throughout the fun years we had in Norway. I realize that, all the time, people move great distances away from one another on this planet. And sometime they never come back... Wel have memories and pictures of our good times, but it's your voice jesse, that i will miss the most...
